Valuable Real estate for Sale.

PURSUANT to the last Will and Testament of the late Col. RICHARD BROWN, deceased I NOW OFFER FOR SALE, the Farm on which he resided, on the Ohio River, in Holliday's Cove, in Brook County, Virginia.

This Estate consists of about 700 Acres of Land, 250 of which is a rich Island, the remainder principally second bottom and upland; that part of the upland which is not tillable, is covered with timber suitable for furnishing the Island and tillable part with fencing and building timber. There is between 150 and 200 acres cleared and under cultivation, a suitable proportion of which in good meadow land. The buildings consist in two log dwelling houses and a log barn with under story of stone. It is well supplied with very fine springs of good water.

The situation of this property on the Ohio River, 8 miles from the flourishing Town of Steubenville, and in the neighbourhood of several Merchant Mills, Iron Works, &c. renders it a desirable object to a person who would wish to farm extensively, as he would probably at all times find a good market at his door for the produce of the farm. A part of the purchase will be required in hand, and for the remainder a reasonable credit will be given.

LUCIEN BONAPARTE.

GENEVA, April 25.—I send you a copy of the document which contains the determination of the Allied Powers, to prevent the escape of Lucien Bonaparte to the United States of America, and those ulterior plans which the discontented refugees propose for the purpose of making of America a theatre of revolutionary ideas, and a new field for ambition and intrigue. The principles of justice, order and legitimacy that govern the powers of Europe, will always disconcert the machinations of the seditious to disturb the peace, and will oppose a barrier to their spirit of rapine, and their plans of usurpation. The first and most efficacious information of this business was derived from the zeal and activity of the Spanish Government, well informed of these plots by exact accounts received both in Europe and America. Thus Spain deserves the confidence of all Governments and the approbation of all the people.

The following document will be read with much interest:—

PARIS.——

Protocol of the conference of the 13th of March, Present The Minister of Austria, Duke de Richelieu, Duke of Wellington, Sir Charles Stuart, the Prussian Minister, the Minister of Russia.

The conference having been opened this day with their Excellencies the Dukes of Richelieu and Wellington, to take into consideration the demand made by Lucien Bonaparte for passports to conduct one of his sons to the United States, and the Austrian Minister having again laid down the three Questions proposed at the Protocol of the 2d inst. relative to the same object it has been agreed.

1. That North America having received a great number of malcontents and French refugees, the presence of Lucien Bonaparte in the United States would be still more dangerous than it is in Europe, where he can be better watched, and that in consequence it is to be desired that the passports he asked for should be refused.

2. That in order to deprive him of all plausible motives for soliciting the said passports, it would be equally desirable to refuse them to his son Charles, whose journey seems to be only a pretext for the plans of the father.

3. That the news received by different means and from different countries, particularly from Naples, leave no doubt of the intrigues and dangerous relations which Lucien Bonaparte keeps up in Italy—and considering that Rome is, perhaps, of all cities that in which superintendence is the most difficult to be exercised, and is exercised with less severity, and that he may, notwithstanding the refusal of passports—find means of deceiving the vigilance of the Roman government, and of escaping to proceed to America; it would be desirable that another abode be assigned him than Rome, and the Roman states, by the high Allied Powers, and that he should be further removed from the coasts, in order to render the plans of escape which he may meditate more difficult.

This opinion being common to all the members of the Conference, it has been resolved to consign it in the protocol of the day, in order that it may be made known to the four Courts, and may produce a determination on their part upon this subject. (signed)

Vincent, Richelieu, Wellington,
C. Stuart, Pozzi di Borgo.

Substance of the State Paper, relative to the difference between Spain and Portugal—In consequence of the Portuguese troops in the Brazils occupying a part of the Spanish territories on the River Plate, the Spanish government, instead of asserting their right of forcible restitution or retaliation, made an application for mediation to the other continental governments, and have addressed a note of remonstrance to the Marquis d'Angular, secretary of state to the court of Brazil. The note is signed by the following names, viz. Vincent, Richelieu, Stuart, Goltz, and Pozzo di Borgho. These ministers observe, that the conduct of Spain has been "guided by a spirit of wisdom and moderation." This cry is of course echoed by the Courier: but we doubt not this pusillanimous transaction will be properly recorded in the page of history; where it may be said, that a descendant of Charles V. dared not to repel an insult from a ruined country, with a run-away king, but was forced to throw himself for protection on the courts which formerly trembled even at the name of his illustrious ancestor.

Rome, May 2. Couriers for the foreign Ambassadors arrive daily in this city. It is certain that there is in agitation at this moment some highly important question, in which a very active part is taken by our cabinet.

People do not cease to talk of the American fleet which appeared lately in the waters of Naples—They give it different destinations; but no one seems to have any correct knowledge on the subject.

DOWNFALL OF THE PERNAMBUCOENS

Extract of a letter from Pernambuco, dated May 25th to a gentleman in Boston.

"Since my last by the way of St. Barts, I have done nothing of business, as nearly all the inhabitants deserted the city, which of course caused a total stagnation of business. The port was blockaded without, and an embargo within, which left me no alternative but to wait till a change of affairs.

On the 18th of this month the Patriots abandoned the city and fled in all directions, some of their leaders hanging themselves and others shooting themselves; and the same day the fortifications were taken possession of by the inhabitants, or rather the Portuguese sailors from the merchant ships in the harbor. A scene of great confusion took place; but fortunately no lives were lost. After the admiral of the fleet came on shore, some kind of order was restored. Nothing of business has been done since, nor will be for 6 or 7 days to come, as there will be days of feasting and rejoicing at the downfall of the Patriots.

The slavery of the Christians at Algiers.

In a letter to a member of Parliament, by Walter Croker, Esq. of the Royal Navy, published in London, 1816, there is the following description of the horrible treatment of the christian slaves by the Algerine pirates.

"The bani, or bagnio, which is in one of the narrow streets of Algiers, has nothing remarkable in its outside appearance; but, inside, it is the most remarkable house of misery imagination can conceive. On entering the gate, there is a small square yard for the slaves to walk about in; there they are, on every Friday, locked up, and, as they do not work on that day, they are allowed nothing but water from the Algerine government. We then ascended a stone stair-case, and, round the galleries, were rooms with naked earthen floors and damp stone walls. They have an iron-grated window and a strong door; two of these rooms have, in each of them, twenty-four things, like cot frames, with twigs interwoven in the middle. These are hung up, one above another, round the room, and those slaves, who are able to pay for the luxury of such a bed, are alone admitted."

"I am happy in wanting a comparison, in any part of the world where I have been, for this abominable prison, and those deadly cells; but, if they had a little more light, I think they would most resemble a house where the negroes of the West-India islands keep their pigs. I must add, that the pestilential smell made Mr. Stanbury so ill that he nearly fainted; and Dr. M. Connel and myself were not much less affected.

"The food of the slaves consists of two black loaves of half a pound each, which is their daily bread; neither meat nor vegetables do they ever taste, those excepted who work at the Marino, who get two olives per day with their bread, and others at the Spanish hospital, which the Spanish government to this day supports, as well perhaps as it is able. In visiting this hospital, the floors of which were covered with unhappy beings of every age and either sex, I saw some men who looked almost sixty, and some children who could not be more than eight years old; the whole of them had their legs swelled and cut in such a horrible manner, that we all thought they could not recover. There also we saw some young Sicilian girls, and some women. One poor woman burst into tears; told us that she was the mother of eight children, and desired us to look at six of them, who had been slaves with her for thirteen years. We left these scenes of horror, and, in going into the country, I met the slaves returning from their labour. The clang of the chains of those who were heavily ironed, called my attention to their extreme fatigue and dejection: they are attended by Infidels with large whips."

There is now a cheering prospect that within a few coming years, the dens of the Barbary pirates will be all broken up, or, at the least, that an entire stop will be put to their infernal piracies, which, through the rivalries and jealousies of the great European powers, have till lately been in a manner licenced for many ages. Nor is it a little gratifying that the American navy did first set the example in this glorious work. Con. Cour.

From the Analectic Magazine for May.

PORTRAIT OF HENRY CHRISTOPHE KING OF HAYTI

The king is daily occupied with military inspections, and always mounts his horse at sun-rise. He is a remarkable handsome, well built man; with a broad chest, square shoulders, and an appearance of great muscular strength and activity. As a soldier he has certainly shown himself to be both valorous and skilful:—in council he is shrewd and judicious. Moderation and a desire to keep aloof from the affairs of neighboring states, are the peculiar characteristics of his administration. His conversation is familiar, condescending and calculated to leave the most favorable impressions on the minds of those who are admitted to his presence. With the penetrating eye of a physiognomist, he appears to read the characters of men: and he is said to be remarkable accurate in the opinion he forms of them. His indefatigable attention to business, makes him acquainted with every transaction in his kingdom; and a retentive memory enables him to treasure them all up. In fine, he is master of all details, and persons or things, with whom or with which he is once acquainted, he is never known to forget. In his administration of public affairs, he appears to be governed by great caution; waiting, we suppose, till the independence of Hayti shall be recognized, by the various powers, before he executes those plans for the ameliorating the condition of his people, which he is known to have in view. Hitherto his task has been arduous indeed; and some allowance is to be made for his imperfections, when we consider the heterogenous nature of those materials which he has had to mould into order and subordination. If severity has sometimes armed the lash of punishment, he might urge, perhaps, as some extenuation, the excuse of Queen Dido:—

Res duri et Regni novitas me talia cogunt Moliri.

DOCTOR SWIFT UPON THE ART OF POLITICAL LYING.

One of the essays of Dean Swift, in his Examiner, was upon the art of Political Lying; and the following short extracts from it are worthy of notice at the present day, if it were for nothing else but to learn whether that art has been stationary the last hundred years, or improving.

"A political lie is sometimes born out of a discarded statesman's head, and thence delivered to be nursed and dandled by the rabble. Sometimes it is produced a monster, and licked into shape; at other times comes into the world completely formed, and is spoiled in the licking. It is often born an infant in the regular way, and requires time to mature it; and often it sees the light in its full growth, but dwindles away by degrees."

"No wonder if an infant so miraculous in its birth should be destined for great adventures"—"It can sink a mountain to a molehill, and raise a molehill to a mountain; hath presided for many years at committees of elections; can wash a blackamoor white make a saint of an atheist and a patriot of a profligate."—"This goddess flies with a huge looking-glass in her hands to dazzle the crowd and make them see, according as she turns it, their ruin in their interest, and their interest in their ruin."

"There is one essential point wherein a political liar differs from others of the faculty; that he ought to have but a short memory, which is necessary according to the various occasions he meets with every hour of differing from himself, and swearing to both sides of a contradiction, as he finds the persons disposed, with whom he hath to deal."—

"Few lies carry the inventor's mark, & the most prostitute enemy to truth may spread a thousand without being known for the author. Besides, as the vilest writer hath his readers, so the greatest liar hath his believers; and it often happens, that if a lie be believed only for an hour, it hath done its work, and there is no further occasion for it. Falsehood flies, and truth comes limping after it; so that when men come to be undeceived, it is too late; the jest is over, and the tale has had its effect."

In another department of Swift's political writings, he thus describes a knot of able editors who figured in his day—"These factious undertakers of the press, write with great advantage: they strenuously affirm a thousand falsehoods without fear, wit, conscience, or knowledge: and we, who answer them, must be at the expense of an argument for each; after which, in the very next pamphlet, we see the same assertions produced again without the least notice of what hath been said to disprove them."

TUESDAY, JULY 22, 1817.

Capt. Heath, late of the marine corps has published an address to the public, in which he complains of the conduct of capt. Perry and com. Chauncey, in terms dictated by the warmth of his feelings. If what capt. Heath has stated, be true, and we have reason to doubt it, the conduct of those two officers was, unquestionably, unjust, and oppressive. We presume, however, that, in justice to their character and standing as officers, capt. Perry and commodore Chauncey, will reply; and we trust, for their own sake, and the reputation of the country, they will reply satisfactorily. We will publish a summary of captain H's narrative in our next.

The Baltimore Gazette of July 10 says, "The President and Directors of the Bank of the United States on the 7th inst. declared a dividend of four per cent. on that part of the capital stock which had been actually paid in agreeably to the Charter.—The arrangements we understand will be made to pay the dividend at the respective branches to the Stockholders residing near them.

"It is stated that the profits made by the bank during the half year, including the interest on the public stock held by the institution, are sufficient to pay the above dividend and leave a surplus of about two hundred thousand dollars."

The Marine Insurance Company of Philadelphia has declared a dividend of twenty per centum on the capital stock of the company, for the last six months.

Extract of a letter to a gentleman in Baltimore from his friend in New-York, dated New-York, June 29.

"I must relate to you, a very novel case of good fortune. Some years past, the unfortunate Colonel Aaron Burr, sold to John Jacob Astor, a certain property (at that time out of this city, and I believe, his country house) for the sum of forty thousand dollars—reserving the right of redeeming it at any time within 20 years, by paying the principal and interest. One day in the early part of this week, colonel Burr offered the money to Mr. Astor, and demanded his property, (now become invaluable) which Mr. Astor declined receiving: Colonel Burr then demanded one hundered & twenty thousand dollars—Mr. Astor required three days to decide; and yesterday I had from most unquestionable authority, that he had compromised by Mr. Astor's paying Colonel Burr $100,000 in cash, by drafts on the Bank of the United States."

THE PRESIDENT

entered Boston on the 2d instant—his reception there was more splendid, than it had been in any of the cities he has visited during his tour. A Boston paper says—"All political distinctions were laid aside, and the citizens of Boston, whose domestic peace has for so long a period been immolated at the shrine of party, once more united in fraternal bands."

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Boston, to his friend in New York dated July 3d, 1817.

"The President's reception in this town yesterday, was as perfect and interesting as could be, and undoubtedly affected him a good deal. Between three and four thousand children, boys an girls, from the public schools, were formed in two lines on the common, dressed in uniform, and adorned with each a rose on the breast. The President took off his hat and bowed to them as he passed; and those who were near him say he shed tears. The military display was extremely impressive, the Hussars making a finer show than any that I ever saw. The University of Cambridge has just had a vote confirmed, bestowing on the President the degree of L. L D.

London papers to the 15th of May, inclusive, were received at Boston by the ship Sally. They state that Mr. Adams our Ambassador at the Court of Great Britain, was admitted to a closet audience of the Prince Regent on the 14th of May, when he delivered his letter of recall, and took leave of his Royal Highness, previous to his departure for America.

The failure of Lord AMHERST's mission to China is confirmed. He refused to comply with the Chinese abject ceremony of prostration: which his lordship not only insisted on general principles of national dignity, but on the precedent established by Lord Macartney.

Gen. Jencks, of Windsor, in Connecticut, raised last year from 54 acres, 417 bushels of rye, 285 of wheat, 2400 lb. of tobacco, 150 bushels of turnips, 1000 of potatoes, and 66 tons of hay. And this in a year of which we complain.

Essex Register.

By a statement from a "Journeyman Tailor," in Boston, it appears that there are twenty five thousand two hundred and forty three stitches in a coat; viz. Basting, 782 stitches—in the edges of the coat. 5,500,--Felling the edges, faces, &c. 7114 do—out of sight in the pockets, &c. 1982 do—in the collar alone 3056 do—seams 5359--holes, &c. 1450 do. The coat he says was made in two days journeyman's hours.

BARON GERAMB.

A Paris journal contains the following account respecting Baron Geramb, who was well known in London in 1812, where he was hotly pressed by his creditors: "Among the distinguished persons whom Divine Providence has brought to this house, (La Trappe,) for their edification, we have to notice Baron Geramb, formerly a general officer, and Chamberlain of the Emperor of Austria. On the 13th of April, he made his solemn vows between the hands of his Abbe, after a noviciate of 15 months. This model of true penitence walks in the steps of Arsene and Bernard, with a fidelity which permits to hope that he will shortly reach that goal to which those illustrious solitaries arrived, where an immortal crown awaits him.

Some of the addresses which have been made to the President at the eastward have brought to recollection (says the editor of the U. States Gazette,) the following historical anecdote.

Talents of a Lord Mayor.—King James the Second passing through Colchester, it was resolved that the Mayor should compliment him on his arrival. It so happened that this chief Magistrate was eminently stupid (which is looked upon as no strange thing in England.) The town clerk was appointed to attend him at his back, and whisper what he had to say to the King.—When they came into his Majesty's presence, the clerk, desiring to encourage the mayor whispered, 'Hold up your head and look like a man!' 'Hold up your head and look like a man' did the mayor bawl to the king. The clerk astonished, whispered, 'What the devil do you mean?' The mayor bawled out, 'What the devil do you mean? The clerk, sweating with fear and vexation, whispered, 'By Heaven! you will ruin us all.' The Mayor immediately repeated, 'By Heaven!' you will ruin us all.' The clerk, in a violent rage said, 'Oh! you blundering puppy, I wish you had never come here.' The mayor again bawled, 'Oh! you blundering puppy, I wish you had never come here.' The clerk, on this immediately took to his heels, and the mayor followed him, leaving the King in a violent fit of laughter, though not without rage.—

We are informed, that a few days ago, in the neighbourhood of New Castle, Del. while a party were engaged in hay-making a dispute arose between two blacks. It arrived to such a degree of violence, that the parties engaged, agreed to settle the matter by the weapons which they were then using in the field—Accordingly scythe to scythe was opposed. With the first blow each antagonist received a fatal wound and fell together, locked to each other by instruments which but a short time previous had been reaping the gracious harvest of the God of nature.——Poulson's pap.

AMELIA ISLAND TAKEN.

From the Baltimore Patriot, July 11.

Col. Posey, aid-de-camp to general M'Gregor, arrived in this city last night, by water from the South, and states that Amelia was taken possession of by the patriot forces under General M'Gregor and Admiral Brion on the 24th of June. There was no fighting, the place having surrendered the first broadside. After this, the whole fleet consisting of one ship, one brig, and nine schooners, sailed for St. Augustine, which, though a stronger place, no doubt will fall like Amelia. The land and naval Patriot forces united are said to consist of 1400 men; and that of Amelia only about 50, and but one field piece. St. Augustine it is believed, is commanded by a Col. Patinger, a brave and skilful officer, with but a small force.

The possession of the Island of Amelia is of the utmost importance to General M'Gregor, in his present movements, connected with the naval force of Admiral Brion; having an excellent and capacious harbour, it affords a port to which his vessels may retire to refit, and a safe retreat, under present circumstances, for the prizes he may capture. If well fortified, its advantages to the patriots are almost incalculable and they will no doubt sufficiently estimate its importance to place it in a state which will admit of defence against the attacks of a very considerable force.

The Island is situate on the East Florida coast, in lat. 30, 52 N. and long. 63, 26 W. within three miles of Talbot Island, which is at the mouth of St. Johns river. Its north end lies opposite Cumberland island, between which and Amelia is the entry into the river St. Mary's. It is 13 miles long and 2 broad, and is represented to be extremely fertile. St. Augustine, to which the patriot force had proceeded, is about 7 leagues further south.

CHRIST CHURCH BELLS.

Among the different celebrations of the 4th of July, in this city, the ringers of Christ Church Bells, who are not to be out done in fidelity to the general government throughout the Union, should not be forgotten. At the striking of 12 o'clock, on Thursday night, that beautiful and musical peal of eight bells, struck off 41 chimes for the Anniversary of the Day, then seventeen more for the seventeen states in the Union. This they continued for one hour, and commenced again at 5 o'clock in the morning; they continued with but few intervals throughout the day—during which they rang 2 peals of grandsire, on the much admired English system of Change ringing. We hail this new effort of our citizens, to rival, in this delightful science, the inhabitants of the old world. —Phil. Amer.

To Owners of Horses.

A NUMBER of the merchants of Philadelphia, desirous of promoting the internal intercourse of the state, and of facilitating their trade and connection with the western states, have united themselves into an association, under the name of "The Philadelphia and Pittsburgh Transporting Company." Their object is to reduce and equalize throughout the year, the cost of carriage, and to diminish the time now required, for the transport of merchandize to the western waters. They therefore purpose to establish Lines of Wagons, to start daily from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, to run day and night, changing horses every ten miles.

It must be evident to every enlightened person, that the success of the proposed system is most intimately connected with the interests of the whole community. It is important for the interiour of our state, that the trade of the western country should be maintained with the Atlantick cities; to secure which, the plan now contemplated, it is believed, will be effectual. A reduction in the rates, and in the time required for the transportation of Goods, to and from the Atlantick cities to the western waters, will enable the farmers and others to transmit their products to market with facility and cheapness, and procure a supply of foreign articles on more favourable terms. It will also increase the demand for horses, travelling, the value of lands, and in fine, add much to the improvement and importance of the towns and country on the route. Owners of horses, will find constant and profitable employment for them near their homes, which is surely preferable to uncertain employment at a distance.

PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED,

For hauling the Wagons any number of sections of ten miles, each section, going and returning, to be performed within every twenty hours, and persons desirous of contracting will state the section or sections they will contract for.

The loading as far as Carlisle, will not exceed 4000 lbs. and from thence to Pittsburgh 3500, or 3200 when the roads are in a bad state.

The following conditions will be required.

1. Each contractor must give satisfactory security for the faithful performance of his contract.
2. Each contract must be for one year.
3. The contractor to be at every expense for his horses and driver, including the harness.
4. The Wagons must travel two miles an hour, changing horses every ten miles without any unnecessary delay.
5. The contractors will be accountable to the Company, for all delays or damages which may arise from fraud or mismanagement upon the road, embraced within their contract.

Turnpike and Bridge Tolls will be paid by the Company.

Application to be made by Letter as early as possible, directed to the Subscriber, agent for the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh Transporting Company in Philadelphia.

AGENT for the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh Transporting Company.

Doctor Bossy's Celebrated Elixir of Health.

A medicine, possessing extraordinary powers in arresting the progress, and effectually curing consumption, with all its train of distressing symptoms—a disease which from its frequency, and difficulty of cure within the last three or four years, seems to threaten destruction to a great portion of our population. The author of this medicine is an aged german physician, of great celebrity and acknowledged talents, (residing in the city of London) whose wonderful success in the cure of consumption, has sounded forth his name to the utmost extent of Great Britain.

It is hoped and expected so great a blessing will not long remain untried by the inhabitants of America, whose diseased lungs, with teazing cough, loss of appetite, decay of strength, loss of flesh, pain in the chest, and depression of spirits, warns them of approaching dissolution.

DELAYS ARE DANGEROUS.

Not to try the means which Providence has placed within our reach, is little less than being our own executioners. It is therefore the duty of every afflicted mortal to seek a remedy in time.

While there is life there is hope!
To-morrow may come too late!!

Dr. Bossy's Hysteric Drops.

A medicine, which has been for many years used with great success, both in Europe and America, speedily removing the most violent fits of Hysterics, like a charm.

Dr. Bossy's Lotion,

For burns and scalds.

Slight burns and scalds, if taken immediately will in general be cured by this Liniment. In case of a fever intervening, Epsom salts taken in small quantities, will assist the cure

When the mischief is extensive or deep, mortification may be apprehended, whether the subject be young or old; the advice therefore of a skilful physician or surgeon, should be procured without delay.

Dr. Bossy's Embrocation,

For bruises, strains, inflammations, rheumatism, &c.

A medicine in every respect superior to the common Steer's Opodeldoc, (so universally used) No medicine ever sold has a greater claim on the public than the one now offered; it being a useful external application for sprains, bruises, childblains, and for dispersing inflammatory tumours, rheumatism, burns scalds, &c.

Dr. Bossy's India Oil,

For the cure of cancers, wens, and all stubborn tumours, &c.

This celebrated Oil, the production of the East Indies, was first discovered by that great, and much celebrated physician of the East Indies, Fo Chi, whose great medical information, has reached the most remote parts of Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Russia, and the United States.

Thousands of empyrics and quacks, are daily offering to the world the most deadly poisons, such as Arsenic, muriate of Mercury, Licuta, &c. in the form of plaisters, Tinctures, Solutions, Pills, &c. thereby destroying the lives of hundreds and thousands of the community.

Infallible Remedy

For destroying Bugs in bedsteads, furniture &c.

This mixture will infallibly destroy them and their nits, though they swarm ever so much. It is necessary that the bed or furniture should be thoroughly wet with it, the dust being first shaken off, which will prevent the mixture staining in the least, or soiling even the richest silks, &c. Should any bugs appear after once using this mixture it will be only owing to not having well wetted the linen &c. of the bed with it. So that those parts being well wetted with the liquid, which dries as fast as it is used, and pouring in the joints and holes, where the sponge or brush cannot reach, they never fail of being all destroyed

N. B. It is necessary that the mixture should be well shaken together before it is used.

Doctor Velnos'

TURKISH GLUE OR ARMENIAN CEMENT,

For mending China, glass, &c.

A discovery of first magnitude in domestic economy, Thousands of articles, many of the most useful are daily committed to the street &c for the want of some suitable Cement, to mend them. The one now offered has proved by experience, to answer the purpose, and will even join glass or china, so strong that it will often break in a fresh place.

Balsamic Aromatic Tincture.

Or the grand corrector of flatulence and acidity in the bowels of children.

A medicine so well calculated to relieve the bowel complaint of infant children, (as it is so emphatically called by nurses) that it needs only the trial of a single bottle, to recommend it to the attention of a family.

To alleviate the sufferings of infant children, has called forth the talents of the most eminent physicians of every age, and the want of success appears chiefly to arise from the deeply rooted prejudices of parents and nurses, which the healing art has had to contend with In this enlightened age much has been done towards banishing ancient prejudices, and we now find children taking food and physic, on much more rational principles than formerly. It is a fact clearly ascertained, that most of the diseases incident to children, do arise from bad management, want of cleanliness, and indigestible food.

The medicine here recommended is known in Europe the last twenty years to have been the favorite remedy with the most celebrated and eminent physicians, for correcting acidity, promoting the digestive powers, warming and invigorating the stomach, and giving immediate ease in the most excruciating pains of the bowels.

The dose to a child a month old is sixty drops—three months old, eighty drops—six months old a tea spoonfull; after which, thirty drops may be added for every year of their age.

The mixture to be well shaken, and mixed with barley water, balm or mint tea, or cold water, and repeated every sixth hour till ease is procured.

Velno's Vegetable Ointment,

For the cure of the Rheumatism

Perhaps no country in the world is so subject to Rheumatism, as the United States of America. The most learned of the medical faculty, has not before been able to produce a medicine which would with certainty cure this dreadful scourge of mankind. Thousands of victims are at this day labouring under the most excruciating pain, from different and lasting attacks of this most formidable disease.

Doctor Velnos is happy in informing the citizens of the United States of America, that after a laborious study and practice of forty years, he has at length found out a medicine, which will infallibly cure the Rheumatism in every stage; and strongly recommends to all who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with the disease, to give this valuable medicine a trial: being composed of the most innocent vegetables, the young, the old, the aged and infirm may use it with the most perfect safety, and may rely with confidence on a perfect cure, if within the reach of medicine.

Since Doctor Velnos first discovered this very valuable vegetable Ointment, thousands have been cured; many who had not the use of their limbs for many years before.

Dr. Hartman's Worm Cakes.

This is a mild and exceeding good vermifuge, may be given at all times with the greatest safety to the youngest infant, or pregnant women. It is celebrated for an astringent, which strengthens the tone of the stomach and intestines, and hence proves useful in disorders arising from laxity of the fibres, dropsical and bilious complaints or when the bowels are obstructed with slime

Doran's Chymical Cake,

For removing grease from silk, cotton or woollen goods.

DOCTOR BREE'S TINCTURE.

For Asthma, Coughs, Colds, and approaching Consumptions.

Dr. Velnos' Antipertesis,

For the cure of Hooping Cough.

A medicine justly entitled to universal approbation, having been used with the most flattering success, in all the hospitals and infirmaries of Europe, and recommended highly by the most eminent of the faculty; is perfectly mild in its operation, and may be given to children with the greatest safety.
